Kinda like a app but still a good game for 50 cents.. This is an arcade game. Audio is in Chinese. Vive controllers do not really work and I have to use an Xbox controller or keyboard and mouse. There are 3 views; above and behind the tank, riding on the tank and inside the tank. The inside tank view is pretty cool but there is no VR function and you aim using a monitor. You start the game with a T55 and having played about 1 hour, I am still using the T55. Single player gameplay is pretty much, drive to the green arrow. Once you get to the green arrow, enemy tanks and later, helicopters appear. Destroy these and move on to the next green arrow and new enemies. This is not a very advanced game, but I do enjoy it. I am looking forward to some in depth tank simulations in VR, but this one is very simple, but fun.. A classic from the olden days of strategy, a great game for singleplayer and multiplayer alike! For those who are wondering how to fix the game and run multiplayer, the game is so old it requires Games for Windows Live to run it. This game still has a small but committed community of great players, with plenty of mods if needed. The game balance itself is a bit odd requiring you to complete the campaigns to unlock "Special units" for multiplayer, such as the Iowa class battleship, or even the infamous MXY-7 Ohka rocket powered suicide plane!

The link below will download the installer for GWFL, it will not cause any changes to your PC and is from Microsoft themselves. Think of it like Steam but for really old games, it can accessed through the in-game overlay.

In conclusion, this game is a fun nostalgic experience and when on sale for only 1 dollar is a great game to get!. A very short VN with simple interface, and nice art style, the BGs were also very good tbh, after playing this first part, I'm really curious for the second part.

Its short, free and interesting, a nice way to break the pace of more demanding games.

. Awesome game, love it. Looks great, phenomenal music and great puzzles. Can't wait to see more.. I love it! A real improvement compared to A4. The story and art is polished. The map is bigger with various points of interest.

I also like how Jeff listens to each beta-tester and implements player feedback in his future installments. \(replaced the new clunky engine with the perfect olden one, brought back the puzzles and polished the game\)

What really stands out for me, is the good storytelling. \(fan of Geneforge, Avadon and Nethergate\)

I'm enjoying every minute in this game. Well worth the price.. Another bad joke on Steam.

- boring

- stupid

- music\sound - on\off

. Like the previous DLC's is brilliant if you already enjoy the game. More of the same, but that's a good thing. This one is particularly interesting because it adds a ton of Army lists, battles and campaigns for the early medieval period. The units look great, and there some very different armies to what we've had in earlier dlc.. KISS... Keep It Simple Stupid... It's a simple space RTS for the casual gamer.

It gay

- Lyria suk. I don't remember buying this, maybe I was drunk? Either way, this game is terrible, stay away.. Why is nobody able to make a good scrolling shooter any more? I still fondly remember Katakis, Raptor and some others from the old Amiga and DOS-PC days. I had hoped that this one would at least honour the memory of those well-made games, but unfortunately it is a turd. Running slow on a fast machine, stupid console controls and has zero atmosphere. Great disappointment.. finally, my dreams of doing forklift pullups on outdoor racking have been realized.

9/10. A fun little old-school point-and-click adventure game.
